

THE DAILY APPEAL.

SUNDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 23, 1857.

Port of Memphis.

RIVER NEWS.
Again we appear before our readers with the old tale of a week past, as regards the river at port. It is falling slowly and surely; and marks have been very limited. There are several parks to day-to-day and to-morrow, but over the whole stage of water and release, there is no indication of navigation, and no reliance can be placed on their character.

The low-water Southerner, which has been at the wharf for the past two days, has not yet made her appearance. It is thought that she is aground in the Chao as the Woodford, from Vicksburg, passed down yesterday and had to be taken up again.

The St. Louis Leader of the 18th inst., notes the departure of the Rose for Memphis, at 4 P.M. of that date. She had not arrived at a late hour yesterday, but she may probably be at the wharf now.

The Randolph is the packet from St. Louis to New Orleans, which has been at the wharf for the past two days. She is to be at the wharf port. She is in fast heat for the low water times, and persons going up the river can rely on her safety and punctuality.

For New Orleans—The passenger and mail packet Virginia, Capt. Charles F. Riley, will be at the landing on Monday evening, and will leave upon her return to New Orleans the next morning and evening. She is to be at the wharf port.

DR. MOSES, DAVIS, WILLIAMS & CO., the attorney Steamboat Agents, have decided under obligations for late river fares.

To Mr. R. T. REED, Steamboat Agent, and the attentive clerks of the New Orleans Packet, We return our thanks for the files of late dates.

As will be seen from their card in another column, Dr. G. G. Geary, Dr. F. W. Allen, are still candidates for the favors of their friends in the commission business. For the present, they may be found at their old stand, on Main street above Adams.

The Benet House in Brownsville is offed for sale on good terms. Any one desiring to enter into the Hotel business, will do well to give this attention, as the location is a desirable one, and a good bargain will be given. See advertisement of the proprietor in another column.

COMMERCIAL NEWS.—This school is in session, and open every night from 7 to 9 o'clock, for the advantage of those who cannot devote time during the day. This valuable branch of education can now be obtained by a little application of one's self and two hours at night, thereby profiting themselves for business. Room 263 Main street, over the auction house of G. E. Locke, Esq. A night lamp designates the place.

Miss ANNIE M. ANDERSON, of Louisville, who, during the past season at New Orleans, was a favorite with the refined and understanding crowd, has now issued a volume, giving a description of the trying scenes through which she passed, and is intended as a tribute to the self-devoted and heroic nature of her co-laborers in the great cause. It is styled "The Heroes of the Pestle."

MISOURI AND INDIANA STATE.—The Missouri Fair is to be held at St. Louis on the 21st inst., and the Indiana State Fair commences the 26th of October next. The Jeffersonville railroad has arranged to convey passengers, stock, and implements to and from fairs at one-half the usual charge. These have been complete arrangements to accommodate a numerous crowd.

DEATH OF MRS. AUSTEN.—Many of our readers, says the Evening News, of yesterday, will be pained to learn the death of the sensible and amiable author of "Sense and Sensibility," Col. H. R. Astor. Her malady, it is understood, occurred a few days ago, at Raley's Spring, near Florence, Alab., whence the family had gone with the hope of benefiting her health, which had been for some time quite feeble. The mortal remains of Mrs. A. were brought to New York on Saturday evening, and shortly after transferred to a boat bound for Nickerson, where they will be interred. Mrs. Astor was much esteemed by all who knew her amiable and gentle qualities and sterling worth, and her death will be mourned by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Her son, Col. Astor, will be filled. In their deep affliction, the surviving relatives have the heart-felt sympathy of a host of friends. May the God of the motherless spread his kind protection over the bereaved ones, and make them feel that all is ordered for the best.

CLANDESTINE MARRIAGE.—We learn from the Raleigh (N. C.) Standard, that a shooting affair occurred at Mr. Fowles's house, on the 18th ult., between Dr. J. W. Jackson, 21st, between J. F. H. Fowles, Esq., and McG. G. Badger, son of Hon. Geo. E. Badger, the shot was fired by each; but, fortunately, the cause was the fact that Mr. H. Fowles, as a justice of the peace, solemnized the rites of matrimony, which had been held before him, and that his wife had come to be married to the boats are now open; so that the action of the current will be soon away, and the river will be deeper below the dam, and should reach the 40 feet mark.
